Powerful Missile Makes Good Start, Then Falls Short

Fizzles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -A powerful Atlas missile failed to go the full route on the latest attempt to break the intercontinental range barrier.

The 80-foot war rocket soared off on what appeared to be a perfect start but today the Air Force said it flew less than 200 miles. It said trouble developed in the rocket engine system.

The Air Force shot an Atlas the full 6,000 miles intercontinental route for the first time last

Since that time the rocket has scored two more spectacular successes by orbiting as a satellite and blazing some 4,300 miles over the ocean range.

The Thursday night effort actually was the third intercontinental range attempt. The first try ended in a violent blowup 90 seconds after launching Sept. 18.

Prayer Of The County Court

In some states what we in Missouri know as judges of the county court are called county commissioners. They perform the same public service in general. This we learned as a reporter in Indiana and Pennsylvania.

As a rule these gentlemen are honest, conscientious and hard working despite the fact that they are usually under fire by some irate constituent with a pet peeve or project such as a new bridge or a donation.

The plight of these public servants is described in some literature that comes all the way from Citronelle, Alabama where they have commissioners, too. It is called "The Prayer of the Commissioners." We are taking the liberty to change the word commissioners to county judges which makes it more intelligible to us. This prayer sounds appropriate enough to be used by members of the Pettis County Court at opening of their sessions:

"Lord bless now the county judges.

"Help us to build all the roads and streets the inhabitants of our district request, and build them without any road tax at all; help us give an abundant amount for all public requests and satisfy all the inhabitants of the districts; and after doing all these things, help us reduce the tax rate.

"We do not complain of our duties. We asked for them and got them, but there are times when we need outside help and need it badly.

Nixon Changes Tune On Missile Lag

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON - Vice President Nixon has done a strange right-about-face on the question of informing the American public about our lag behind Russia in missiles and satellites.

One year ago he was the man who urged Eisenhower to give the American people the facts, to deliver a Churchillian type of speech rousing the public to greater efforts in the cold war. Nixon urged what was called "Operation Candor." Now he has gone all-out for "Operation Soothing Syrup.'

Fearful that the satellite-missile issue may provide political thrust for the Democrats in 1960, Nixon has joined the White House in playing down Russia's lead in outer space. Democratic charges that the United States is lagging in the space race, he fears, could become a damaging political issue.

To his fellow policymakers, therefore, he is erying for a speedup. But to newsmen he has been whispering that the United States is really

However, here are the sobering facts which

Intercontinental Missiles - Russia tested her first ICBM 18 months ahead of the United States. By next Christmas Russia will have an estimated 300 ICBM's pointing at American cities from across the Arctic. Not until 1962 will the United States be able to launch a return salvo anywhere near this number. Even then, in 1962, we will have around 100 fewer ICBM's

Intermediate Missiles - Russia had actually and Jupiters. Today Russia has an estimated 750 Intermediate missiles ready to launch against our overseas bases. The United States has shipped only two dozen Thors to England, hopes to install some more in Italy, Turkey Wyoming's freshman Sen. Dale McGee, a professor turned politician, had trouble finding a house in Washington that would fit his finances.

The real estate agency, learning he was a senator, persisted in taking him through homes costing from $49,000 to $93,000.

Finally McGee asked the salesman to show him something less expensive.

"First," explained the new senator, "I am a Democrat, not a Republican. That lowers the price I can pay. Second, I have been a pro-

With an understanding nod, the salesman took McGee to a modest home that an attorney was giving up because it was too small for his three children. The senator found it roomy enough for his four children.

However, he didn't have a dime for down payment. The real estate agency had to wait until he could borrow the money.

Although the salesman ended up with a small- dismissed Congress and aner commission than he had expected from a nounced it will rule by decree for senator, he comented cheerfully: "It's nice 18 months, after which elections to know that a man without a bank account can be held can be elected to the United States Senate."

So now Vice President Nixon is going to Moscow, probably this summer. The invitation was given him by Deputy Premier Mikoyan last by American criticism of the week. Nixon has long been itching to visit Russia, but avoided giving a yes or no answer. However, he plans to go to West Germany and Poland this year and will unquestionably go on to Moscow as part of the trip.

AREA CAGE SLATE Julius Boros, Maxwell Lead In Crosby Play

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)-Julius Boros and Billy Maxwell, who both know well the way to golf's pay window, paced a packed field into today's second round of Bing Crosby's $50,000 pro-amateur tournament.

Boros, a former National Open champ, and ex-amateur king Maxwell both caught fire with a string of birdies on the second nine holes of Thursday's opening round to shoot five-under-par scores of 67. That gave them a one-stroke advantage over U.S. Open Champion Tommy Bolt and fast-rising John McMullin. Nine others were deadlocked at 69. On that list came Art Wall, Dow Finsterwald, Howie Johnson, Bob Goalby, Arnold Palmer, Frank Stranahan, Bo Winninger, Doug Sanders and Paul O'Leary.

Except for Wall and Palmer, all the leaders played the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, easier than the other two used in this tournament - Cypress Point and Pebble Beach.

Highlights Of Network TV Shows

By CHARLES MERCER NEW YORK (AP) - Here are some network programs I expect to watch in the coming week - and my reasons why. On Saturdays Perry Como's guests on NBC include Rosemary Clooney, the Kingston Trio, Jane Wyman. In the past week three viewers have told me they think Como is tired or growing indifferent. Is he?

Also on Saturday over NBC comes the premiere of another Western, "Black Saddle," a series about a one - time gunslinger turned lawyer. Presumably students of Westerns will want to ee if they can find a difference between this one and others.

On Sunday, CBS will show a special hour-long series of interviews with new U.S. senators - a first - hand way of discovering what these men are like. Later on CBS there is the first in a new series, "Behind the News with Howard K. Smith," designed to give one a deeper insight into important world events.

Edward R. Murrow's "Small World" presents the second part in an opinionated, animated threeway conversation involving soprano Maria Callas, conductor Sir Thomas Beecham, and pianist Victor Borge. At 7:30 p.m. Sunday there's quite a choice on all three networks. On CBS Jack Benny is joined by Barbara Stanwyck in 'Autolight," a parody of the drama "Gaslight.

At the same hour on ABC 'Maverick' will also do a spoof Hal Boyle's Column called "Gunshy," with characters resembling the cast of "Gunin the estate of Willard government is making the Mafia premiere of "The Music Shop, Craig, Incompetent. Estate No. and its traffic in narcotics a pri- Starring Buddy Bergman," a live

The Murrays Lose Money—But Like It

By DICK KLEINER NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK - Heading for the offices of Kathryn and Arthur Murray, you go down long cirridors and get quick peeks into glasslined rooms where couples are

But, once inside either of the two panelled offices they occupy, the atmosphere isn't one of a dancing school, but a TV production center. For the Murrays are allout on their television kick, and they're doing right well at it, too. The rating of "The Arthur Murray Show" is high, surprising lots of critics and executives who had it tabbed as strictly a summer replacement.

Arthur Murray says his TV show is a losing proposition for him.

"Every week," he says, "I lose, on an average, $10,000. I have lost as much as $75,000 on one show. That's because I give certain amounts to charity to get the celebrities to come on the show and dance. Jerry Lewis cost me a $25,000 contribution, for example, I've offered Greta Garbo $50,000, and Elvis Pressley agreed to $30 .-000, but the sponsor wouldn't let me have him on."

Besides the week-to-week losses. Murray says there is another, more Indirect financial consideration.

'When we have a show on the air," he says, "I spend 75 per cent of my time working on it. The rest of my business suffers. At those times, like now, our net income goes down five to 10 million a year.

Why, then do the Murrays like to have a TV show on?

First, they admit that publicizing their name helps their business, in the long run. And secendly, they independently agree that they like it.

"A ham is never cured," says

Kathryn.

"I have a ham in the family." says Arthur.

Kathryn Murray, the tiny and (riendly MC of the show, admits that she likes to perform. She likes dancing better than Mc-ing. ("I sometimes ad lib things I'm sorry for afterwards") and likes repeating old ones.

KATHRYN MURRAY AND GROUCHO MARK, one of the celebrity dancers who are a regular feature of The Arthur Murray

She works hard - and unquestionably one of the show's big appeals is her number. People know she is a grandmother, and like to be shown that maturity is no barrier to activity.

But the biggest appeal of the show is the celebrity dance contest. Each week, three, four or five big names of show business troop into the NBC-TV studios and dance. Few of these have ever danced before in public. Some creating new dances better than and was practicing with Tom Hanson in one of the small dance stu-

> "We think we might do a chacha," said Hanson. Murray asked Miss Foch to do a little chacha with him.

> "I don't think that's right for you," Murray said.

> Then, with a slightly desperate air, Miss Foch gave out with one

"That's it," said Murray.

Murray's forte is his ability to sense which person should do which dance -- "an unerring intuition," his wife says. He and his director, Ruskin, get along by knowing each other's strengths and weaknesses.

Mrs. Murray says that Ruskin has the comedy sense, while Arthur has none. She will take Rus-

New Sylvania Television Used TV Sets turn out to be quite good, others are pretty sad.

Most of them are passable. They come into Murray's studio and work with one of the show's dancers. Nina Foch had just reported kin's advice on her own pantomimes, but not Arthur's. But Arthur knows music, knows which songs should be sung by which

It's Arthur who gets the big names to come on and dance. He says they do it for any of three reasons - they are anxious to help charities; they want to plug a play, a movie or a record; or they want to let people know they can do something else besides their own specialty.

And Arthur, too, wants to prove 12:00-(2) Hawkeye, something. He has a yen to be recognized as a producer. He'd like to produce other shows, besides his own.

"But," he says, sadly, "nobody 12:30-(2) Jaycee's Special Film. takes me seriously as a producer. I had an idea for a mystery series. I offered it to a sponsor, for $5,000 less than competitive shows. They laughed at me."

Maybe, now that his own show is well up on the rating charts, they shouldn't laugh any more.

TV SKETCHBOOK

Scenes End Up On Floor

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)-Tom Galvin knows that some of life's most fascinating scenes end up on a film cutting room floor.

If the nation's celebrities appear to best advantage on NBC-TV's "Today" program, they can thank Galvin, who has been carefully guarding their reputations as supervising film editor of the show since it went on the air seven years ago.

With the promise that no names would be revealed, Galvin took to reminiscing the other day. He recalled:

The filmed interview with a leading lady prominent in American politics who kept dozing while the TV reporter asked her questions. Galvin's gallant scissors made her appear wide awake.

The eminent poet who, when making a filmed commentary on his work, used language unpoetic and unfit for home consumption each time he muffed a line. When Galvin finished cutting, his remarks were both poetic and proper

The renowned novelist who kept a glass of whisky under his chair and hoisted it frequently during a filmed interview in his home. Galvin's scissors made him look like a teetotaler.

The elder statesman who was seized by a violent and uncontrollable itch before the cameras. Galvin made sure he didn't The Boston Celtics performed a scratch once on the home screen. Galvin has been a celebrity came film editor for a newsreel company at the age of 15.

All his work with film has stood Galvin in good stead when viewing TV at home. When his highly trained eyes watch a filmed show, he can tell when it's exactly 11 seconds before the commercial break-and thus gets a head start

Bell Features Adventures In Music World

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)-"The Bell Telephone Hour' opened its series on NBC-TV Monday night with a program advertising the theme of adventures in music.

Personally, the only adventure I detected in the program was whether I would last to the end.

I did, and I'm glad, because the last 20 minutes was the best of the hour. Then, Harry Belafonte sang ballads, folk songs and spirituals delightfully - overcoming the handicap of atrocious staging and lighting.

Members of the New York City Ballet offered a travesty on the mores of 40 years ago. It whistled over my head - grotesquely. But I enjoyed the background piano of Arthur Gold and Robert Fizdale.

Renata Tebldi sang selections from "Madame Butterfly." She was in excellent voice.

There also was some business of Maurice Evans speaking Ogden Nash verse set to the music of "Carnival of the Animals" while Baird puppets leaped about. I don't know what was behind this idea

The program dispensed with that tired old television hack: The master of ceremonies. I could have used one to lead me by the hand through this wasteland.

"I'm tired of hearing blasts against daytime television as being unimaginative. Daytime TV shows offer more companionship and therapy to a countless number of people than any of the evening programs.

They for the beer in the refrigerator, are companions to housewives who spend the major part of the NBC-TV Sunday, is not a Western day alone in secluded parts of the nation.
